What: Hanyu Shuiping Kaoshi, also known as HSK, is the official standardized test of Chinese as a foreign language recognized by China and many countries worldwide.

Who: For those interested in obtaining certification for their Chinese language skills.

Why: To obtain an official Chinese language certification, issued by the State Committee for the Chinese Proficiency Test of China, for both education and employment purposes, which ✓ can fulfill the foreign language requirement at PCC if one passes the test

on or beyond Level 4;
✓ will qualify the test taker for the HSK Excellent Scholarship to study in a Chinese university for one month in summer;
✓ can meet the prerequisite for Chinese proficiency when one applies for higher educational institutions in China; ✓ Represents proof of proficiency in Chinese when one applies for posts in the East Asia area.
✓ can be an important qualification when a high school graduate applies for a university in the US;
✓ is an official document for those seeking employment in the US in which proficiency in Chinese is required.
