ASSOCIATE IN ARTS IN ANTHROPOLOGY FOR TRANSFER DEGREE

19-23 units

Anthropology is the comprehensive study of humans, our ancestors, and our non-human primate relatives. The field explores what it means to be human, from prehistoric times to the present. Anthropologists investigate contemporary human social behaviors (cultural anthropology), the origins and nature of languages (linguistic anthropology), human evolution, variation and adaptation (physical anthropology), and the ancient life ways and cultural development of past human populations (archaeology). The anthropology program at Pasadena City College provides courses that enable students to complete lower division prerequisites and general education requirements for transfer to institutions of higher learning and/or receive an associate degree. The goal of the anthropology program is to prepare students to use the discipline's holistic perspective, research methods, and general knowledge in order to find reasonable solutions to human dilemmas. The Associate in Arts in Anthropology for Transfer Degree is designed to prepare the student for seamlessly transferring to the CSU to earn a baccalaureate degree in anthropology.

The graduate of the Associate in Arts in Anthropology for Transfer will:

Demonstrate an understanding of the nature of scientific inquiry and its application to anthropological research.

Identify patterns and analyze the adaptive relationships between organisms and their environments.

Demonstrate an awareness of the diversity of past human societies and a comprehension of how archaeological evidence is used to reconstruct past processes of culture change.

Understand and articulate the breath of cultural beliefs and practices found across cultures and throughout time, with special emphasis on indigenous traditions.

Articulate an understanding of ethical principles and responsibilities in anthropological research using a relativistic framework.

ASSOCIATE IN ARTS IN SOCIOLOGY FOR TRANSFER DEGREE

18 units

Sociology is the scientific study of society, social institutions and social relationships. A key contribution of the discipline is that social factors matter. Our lives are not only shaped by personal psychology, but also by our place in the social world. Sociology examines how social structures, such as the workplace, political, economic, educational and religious institutions, affect individuals and how individuals influence these structures. Sociologists also explore how people's socioeconomic status, race, ethnicity, age, gender, sexualities and marital status affect their attitudes, behavior and chances in life. Sociologists organize their knowledge in theories which they both create and test through social research. Often such research is aimed at understanding important social issues and problems. Sociologists study the patterns of behavior that characterize human interaction. They seek to discover the main forces that unite and separate social groups and to determine the conditions that transform social life.

Student Learning Outcomes

Articulate the role of sociological theories in multiple social contexts.

Identify and explain major sociological and theoretical perspectives.

Critically analyze important social issues and problems.

Identify patterns of behavior that characterize human interaction.

The Associate in Arts in Sociology for Transfer degree will be awarded upon completion of course work totaling 60 California State University (CSU) transferable units including the above major requirements and the Intersegmental General Education Transfer Curriculum (IGETC for CSU) or California State University General Education (CSU GE) requirements with a minimum grade point average of 2.0.

All courses in the major must be completed with a grade of “C” or better. (Students completing this degree are not required to fulfill additional PCC graduation requirements.)
